CONNECTIONS 2011

DISCOURSE & ILLUMINATION

● Connections: The Great Lakes Information Science Conference

is a conference for all Library and Information Science (LIS) doctoral students and candidates. This is a student-focused conference that is intended to provide an opportunity for LIS doctoral students to share and exchange ideas and research. The conference is open to all LIS doctoral students. This conference is organized and run by your fellow LIS doctoral students and is considered a forum for research at any stage.

In keeping with the original intention of the conference, this year's theme is Discourse and Illumination. Connections 2011 is being held for the first time at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. A workshop entitled Illuminating Your Research Agenda: A Workshop for Future Library and Information Science Faculty is also being offered at the conference.

Call for Papers

Connections 2011 is now accepting submissions from doctoral students currently enrolled in a library or information science program. The submissions may cover any information or library science related subject including library or information behavior, policy, or systems. Submissions are due January 14, 2011. All accepted papers will be published in the Connections 2011 conference proceedings. Presentations for accepted works will be limited to 20 minutes. For more details, please visit our website.
