

CRUNCH TIME

How to Survive and Thrive in the Trenches

Rose Raney

Rose Raney has an M.A. in English with a concentration in creative writing. She has twenty years of progressive experience developing proposals and scientific and technical documents in the nuclear, medical, environmental, and telecommunications industries. She currently manages subject matter experts and other contributors in the development of proposals in information management. Rose is a senior member of STC, has served on STC ETC board, and has judged publications competitions. She holds the STC certification in team management, specializing in management of diverse, geographically dispersed teams to develop effective technical communications. Rose is also an active, publishing poet in Knoxville. She has taught and lectured at the University of Tennessee.

Opening Discussions:

Grammar Gremlins: Regular examination of the trickiest grammar questions.
Presented by Fatima Hyder (SpecPro Environmental Services LLC)

A Day in The Life: A peek into the day-to-day work of a technical writer/editor
Presented by Anna Hamilton (Safe Skies Alliance)

Sponsored by the Society for Technical Communication, East Tennessee Chapter

EAST TENNESSEE CHAPTER

STC

February 21, 2013

King College
10950 Spring Bluff Way
Knoxville, TN 37923

6:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m.

$5 Students with ID

$10 STC Members

$15 Non-Members

RSVP: mfawley@utk.edu