

Baker Center Living Learning Community

Are you interested in public policy or civic engagement? Do you want to develop your leadership skills while living with a close-knit community? Do you want to engage in exciting discussions and projects and have personal meetings with important political and social figures? Then the BCLLC is for you!

Incoming freshmen at the University of Tennessee seeking a small community that lives together in Morrill Hall, takes courses together, and learns through experience about how civic engagement and how public policy impacts life in the real world, are invited to apply for the Baker Center Living and Learning Community.

BCLLC members register students to vote

Annual BCLLC policy simulation senate hearings

BCLLC members attend Harvard conference

To apply to the BCLLC, sign up with UT Housing first here: Housing Application Then you will be directed to our application here: BCLLC Application 2014-2015 Enrollment starts 3/17/2014 and ends June 30th, 2014 or until full. We take a maximum of 25 members.

Please read thoroughly through the BCLLC requirements. If you have any questions, please contact Lisa Dicker at ldicker@utk.edu or Nissa Dahlin-Brown at nissa@utk.edu

