

Anthropology of Justice

Spring 2015

This course provides an overview of anthropological approaches to justice. We will tackle questions central to anthropological inquiry, including: how is justice variously defined? How do justice, culture, and the legal interact and constitute one another? How do justice and justice processes affect lived reality? How can we use anthropology to investigate notions of justice?

ANTH 130/137 prerequisite

Instructor: Amanda J. Reinke
areinke@vols.utk.edu

ANTH 459

TR 9:40-10:55am