

Subject: Short Course - Freshwater Mussels of West Virginia: Life History and Identification

The West Virginia University Natural History Museum will be sponsoring the course titled “Freshwater Mussels of West Virginia: Life History and Identification” to be taught by mussel biologist Janet Clayton of the WV DNR, on February 22-26, 2016. The course consists of one week of intensive work on all aspects of freshwater mussels. Topics include species identification, life history, ecology, conservation status, and management. Cost of the course is $600 and can be paid online at:

http://wvu.augusoft.net/index.cfm?method=ClassInfo.ClassInformation&int\_class\_id=26486&int\_category\_id=3&int\_sub\_category\_id=62&int\_catalog\_id=0

Additionally, you will need to make arrangements for your own accommodations (Rooms will be blocked under WVUNH Mussel Class at North Bend State Park) (304) 643-2932

For additional information contact: Ann Anderson, Davis College of Agriculture, Natural Resources and Design, WVU Natural History Museum, PO Box 6125, Morgantown, WV 26506-6125, ann.anderson@mail.wvu.edu 304-276-8950