

Subject: MS Assistantship (Forest Certification) at Warnell School, UGA

A two year fully funded MS assistantship starting from July 2016 is currently available at the Warnell School of Forestry and Natural Resources, University of Georgia. The student will work on the cutting edge of forest policy focusing on forest certification (Sustainable Forestry Initiative's Fiber Sourcing Standards) and its direct and indirect impact on forestry resources at the landscape level in Georgia. Results of this research are directly going to feed forest policy making at the state, regional, and national levels. Please consider applying for this position. Else, feel free to share the announcement with others who might be interested. You can find the announcement here:
