

Subject: MS in Environmental Science Research Opportunities at Villanova University

The Department of Geography & the Environment at Villanova University is starting a new MS in Environmental Science program in fall 2016 (http://www1.villanova.edu/villanova/artsci/geoenv/academicprograms/Graduate_Programs.html). Students interested in MS thesis research opportunities focused on the response of coastal marshes to climate change and land use change should contact Nat Weston (nathaniel.weston@villanova.edu). More information on research in the Weston Lab can be found at the website (<http://nweston.org/>).