

David L Nieland

Subject: The bee course

THE BEE COURSE is a 10-day workshop offered for conservation biologists, pollination ecologists and other biologists who want to gain greater knowledge of the systematics and biology of bees. The course objectives are presented in the course announcement, which can be clicked on below. Also available there is the application form for the 2016 course, which will be held at the Southwestern Research Station, Portal, Arizona, from August 22 to September 1, 2016.

REMINDER

DEADLINE FOR APPLICATIONS FOR THE BEE COURSE 2016 is MARCH 1.

<http://research.amnh.org/invertzoo/beecourse/>