

Subject: Conservation Program Manager for NGO in West Kalimantan (Borneo)

**Alam Sehat Lestari (ASRI)** is an innovative non-profit located in West Kalimantan, Indonesia. We are now seeking a conservation manager to work with us to help protect Gunung Palung National Park -- one of the biological wonders of the world and home to ~10% of the world's remaining orangutans. The ASRI Clinic, and our future hospital, provide high-quality, discounted **health care** to local communities in exchange for commitments to **forest conservation**. This work is supported by a portfolio of conservation and community development programs designed to target individual drivers of illegal logging in Gunung Palung.

Your job would be overseeing a team of 10 Indonesian staff members and the conservation programs they manage which include:

1. Reforestation of critical orangutan habitat with native tree species
2. Sustainable agriculture extension work & agricultural product marketing
3. Micro-enterprise program for loggers to become entrepreneurs
4. Goats for Widows/Livestock husbandry
5. Conservation education and community outreach
6. Illegal logging monitoring and GIS analysis
7. Forest Guardians/Community organizing and capacity building

See **full job posting** at:

<http://is.gd/asri2016cpm>

We will begin reviewing applications on **16 May 2016**; please be sure your application arrives before 30 May 2016.

More about Alam Sehat Lestari:

<http://alamsehatlestari.org>

ASRI is supported by US non-profit, Health in Harmony:

<http://www.healthinharmony.org/>