Subject: Internships/Research in Panama: reforestation, env. educ., communications, management, library science

Dear Ecolog-L members,

The Azuero Earth Project is a rural nonprofit dedicated to reforestation, tropical dry forest restoration, sustainable land management and environmental education on the Azuero peninsula of Panama. We currently seek interns and research collaborators in grassroots reforestation/conservation, wildlife research, environmental education, nonprofit management, environmental (bilingual) communications, graphic design, and environmental library science. For more information on the organization, please email info@azueroearthproject.org. To see more about our work in the field, see our social media networks (@proecoazuero on Instagram, Twitter and Facebook).

Best,

Ruth
