

From: Sarah Boyle
Subject: One-Year Assistant Professor Position: Environmental Science, Conservation Biology, and Related Fields

---

The Department of Biology at Rhodes College seeks qualified applicants for a one-year faculty position as Assistant Professor to begin in August of 2017. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in a field of biology and a strong interest in engaging students at the undergraduate level. The person who fills this position will teach Introduction to Environmental Science lecture and lab, an upper-level course with lab for Biology majors, preferably Conservation Biology or a similar course, and participate in either a lecture or lab section of the spring Biology II introductory courses for majors. The Department invites candidates who can contribute to the goal of diversifying our faculty.

All application materials must be submitted online. Review of applications will begin on April 17, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Completed applications will include a letter of application, a statement of teaching philosophy, a curriculum vitae, copies of graduate and undergraduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation. Please address in your cover letter your interest in teaching at a liberal arts college and how your experiences with teaching, scholarship, and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity as one of its core values, particularly as it pertains to the study of Biology. The online application system will solicit letters of recommendation electronically from the candidate's recommenders, once their contact information has been entered by the candidate.

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu

For additional information regarding the position, please contact Dr. Carolyn Jaslow, Chair of the Search Committee, at cjaslow@rhodes.edu.

Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate liberal arts college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities. Read more about Memphis at <http://www.rhodes.edu/content/our-city>.

