

Dear Colleagues,

The Easter Holiday is just over, as well as the official extended abstract submission period.

We have now recovered from the hangover due to our Easter customs ☺ (see the end of the newsletter)

Let us shortly update the statistics of the upcoming conferences:

- We received more than 75 and 40 abstracts for the ISVLV and IRS, respectively.
- The number of registered participants has risen to almost 90 for the ISVLV and 60 for the IRS

Registration is still open and available: <http://kabafalvi.wixsite.com/isvlv-2017/registration> OR <https://www.rana-2017.com/registration> with a Credit Card payment option via the GRC homepage: www.ranavirus.org/store

You might have already noticed the update on our webpages, yet here we also draw your attention to special hotel options (if you have not booked accommodation so far). You can easily book these via the special links provided for our meetings: <https://www.secure-hotel-booking.com/visit-hungary-travel-agency/2CSC/en/>

The available two hotels are in the vicinity of the congress location and have good ratings:

In Hungary, a folk custom Water Plunge Monday is still a living tradition (We have just learned that it has a Polish origin: <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/%C5%9Amigus-dyngus>). It is most commonly known as "locsolkodás" (sprinkling). Traditionally, young men splashed young women with water as symbol of fertility. Though today, young women and girls are more likely to be sprayed with cheap perfume. In return, women are expected to provide men with either (hand-)painted or chocolate Easter eggs, cakes, or a drink of pálinka ("firewater" OR schnaps).

WE HOPE THAT YOU ENJOYED YOUR EASTER HOLIDAYS AS WELL
