

Juneteenth Celebration

The Biological Impact of the Human Footprint

Thursday, June 22, 2023

6 – 7:15 p.m.

Virtual event

Join Shane Campbell-Staton '08, assistant professor of ecology and evolutionary biology at Princeton University, for an engaging discussion on how the human footprint is transforming the planet and how science, politics, and culture are intricately connected in unexpected ways. Campbell-Staton will share his groundbreaking research of these real world connections and the unique way he utilizes audio and visual media to bring science to the public including the development of his upcoming PBS documentary, The Human Footprint.

University of Rochester Trustee Curtis J. Johnson '88 will facilitate a conversation on Campbell-Staton's personal story of the challenges he overcame at Rochester and elsewhere, the opportunities he's cultivated, and the life lessons he's learned along the way.

Featuring opening remarks by

Sarah C. Mangelsdorf

President and G. Robert Witmer, Jr. University Professor
